

The Theological Status of Heliocentrism

October 1997

by

J. S. Daly

Britons Catholic Library, Killanne, Enniscorthy, Co. Wexford, Ireland

Contents

Chapter 1	Background	1
Chapter 2	Documents and Facts Bearing Upon the Church's Attitude to Heliocentrism	4
Chapter 3	Different Interpretations of the Implications of the Foregoing Data	11
Chapter 4	Principal Arguments in Favour of the Infallibility of the Condemnation of Heliocentrism	16
Chapter 5	Principal Arguments Against the Infallibility of the Condemnation of Heliocentrism	23
Chapter 6	Interim Conclusion	30
Chapter 7	The Argument that Heliocentrism Was Declared to Be Heretical in a Special Sense	33
Chapter 8	Evaluation of the Theological Status of the Condemnations of Heliocentrism	37
Chapter 9	Binding Force of Non-Infallible Decrees	38
Chapter 10	Theological Qualification of Heliocentricity in the Past and Present	47
Chapter 11	Can It Ever Be Lawful to Suspend Interior Assent to the Doctrinal Content of Congregational Decrees?	51
Chapter 12	The Correct Catholic Attitude to Heliocentricity Today	54
Chapter 13	Retractions	57
Appendix I	The 1633 Condemnation and Abjuration of Galileo	59
Appendix II	The Condemnation of Louvain Traditionalism	63
Appendix III	The Church's Theological Notes or Qualifications	68